

Aspect: Musical Instrument

DRUM

A drum is a musical instrument that is struck with the hands or with a drum sticks (a stick for hitting a drum). A collection of drums and cymbals is called a drum kit, or drum set. Drums are used to keep a steady beat in a song. They give music of many kinds a sense of feeling.

Drums are the world's oldest and most universal musical instruments, and the basic design has remained essentially unchanged for thousands of years.

Drums may be played individually, with the player using a single drum. Others are normally played in a set of two or more, all played by one player, such as bongo drums and timpani.

DAFLI

Is a musical instrument, which can be thought of as similar to a drum or Tabla. They are often used in rural folk fares, religious festivals, or Bhajans. Some people earn their livelihood by playing such musical instruments.
