Recipe sharing

Preparing a meal, snack or drinks for family or friends is a fun way for your child to learn to share. Sharing food helps your child learn about compromising, taking turns and negotiating. For example, through sharing food, your child learns that if we give a little to others, we can get some of what we want as well. Learning to share is important for making and keeping friends and playing well with other children. But sharing can be a challenge, especially at first. Your child will need plenty of practice and encouragement.

For this activity you can choose a simple meal or snack. Your child could also prepare a jug of water or juice and some cups for extra sharing practice.

Here are some good dishes to prepare and share:

- Fruit salad: choose soft fruits like bananas, strawberries and watermelon. These are easy for your child to cut with a safe knife. Help your child by peeling the fruit first.

- Learn question/answers

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Strawberry ice blocks: this recipe is great for hot weather. And you can vary it by using your child's favourite fruits. • Carrot and oat mini muffins: this is a good choice for lunch boxes and snacks. Mixing and measuring the ingredients is fun and helps your child's numeracy skills. • Easy pizza: your child might enjoy helping you put toppings on the pizza and serving it up for lunch or dinner. You can talk about who needs bigger or smaller serves. • Finger foods: your child can help you spread toppings on toast soldiers or arrange fresh or cooked vegies on a plate for sharing. GDGPS
